THESE BIRDS WALK PUBLISHING

Modeling itself after old record companies by distributing their books in installments, These Birds Walk publishing is doing something truly unique in the world of photography books. It's a rare distribution method, but a welcomed change. The latest installment, "The Kin Series," is a collaboration between four photographers, founder Paul Schiek along with Mike Brodie, Ari Marcopoulos and Jim Goldberg. All of these photographers have established reps on their own, now with each putting out a book in this series, it creates a kinship, a family of art between abstract photographers. Subscribing to this series is like buying Christina Aguilera's album just because Premo produced some tracks, you know, experiencing something different by way of what you already know. Available only online, printed in limited availability and shipped directly to your doorstep, this series will make all your friends wonder how you know about such an eclectic group of photographers. Just tell them a little birdie told you. thesebirdswalk.com —Nichelle Dailey
